◆ Peter Marks, group chief executive for The Co-operative Group

Following the acquisition of Somerfield and the merger with the Britannia Building Society in 2009, The Co-operative Group now has an annual turnover of more than £14bn, operates 5,300 food, financial services, pharmacy, travel, funeral and motor outlets and is the UK's largest mutual business. The Group employs 120,000 people and is owned by its six million members.

◆ Tamara Vrooman, chief executive officer for VanCity

VanCity is the largest credit union in Canada and renowned for exceptional member service, sustainable business practices and community leadership. Under Tamara's leadership in 2009, Vancity earned its second highest net income on record and sold non-core parts of the business, which simplified Vancity's structure and added CAD$65 million to the credit union's already healthy capital base.

◆ Jeff Post, President and Chief Executive Officer of CUNA Mutual Group

CUNA Mutual Group, based in Madison, Wis., USA, is the leading provider of insurance and financial services to credit unions and their members worldwide. As of Dec. 31, 2010, CUNA Mutual Group had annual operating revenues of more than US$2.5 billion, assets exceeding $US15.4 billion, and a global workforce of over 4,100 employees..
